God's Timing

A few weeks ago, EJ's friend Abigail, the jewelry maker, came to visit. I had tucked a certain dollar amount (about $30 worth) in my pocket to give her. As we neared the end of our visit, I pulled the money out and gave it to her. She gasped loudly and shouted "Praise God! Praise God! My landlord keeps asking for rent money and I didn't have it until just now!" How much did she need for rent? The exact amount that was in my pocket!

Family News

A quick trip to the USA in May provided us an opportunity to see Michael graduate from Northcentral Technical College. He's now settling into his own apartment close to his job at Merrill Tool and Waterjet.

Benji starts his senior year at Concordia University this month. He's filled his summer with work, softball and disc golf.

Andrew enjoys the assistant manager role for Little Wolf Auto more than anticipated. He and a few buddies spent a weekend sleeping on rocks in Door Country, just for fun.

Matthew turned 14 and started 8th grade this month at Eagles Wings Homeschool Academy. He really hopes we get a dog, but in the meantime he dog sits for neighbors.

When technology fails

AIM AIR ups and downs

"Are you kidding me?" Phil muttered under his breath. Nope, not kidding. Server crash! Three important databases at AIM AIR were impacted by this crash. While two of them were restored fairly quickly with backup databases, the third one was not so fortunate. As the AIM AIR tech guys attempted to restore that software we discovered there had been some kind of error in the backup system, ouch! Over four months of data lost to whatever land servers crash on.

This database contains the stock room parts information including purchase orders, parts received, and parts checked out; it contains the work orders for all the work accomplished on our airplanes (which is Phil's job to complete). He has paper versions of most, if not all, of this information and we praise the Lord for that.

Please pray for Phil and the team who will be spending the next few weeks re-entering all of this information into the new server.

For the pioneering families who go to remote locations, using the airplane provides a vital lifeline.

Delays are inevitable with aviation. A highly anticipated trip to a troubled area of East Africa was recently postponed. Pray for the logistics to work out to get the much needed supplies into the country.

Meanwhile, the AIM boarding school begins and AIM AIR is assisting students with transportation. Pray for safety!

We appreciate your prayers and love with the recent loss of EJ's dad. God's timing is evident – a good friend "just happened" to be visiting the afternoon EJ got the call. Pray for our travels as we make this unexpected trip.
